7 p.m. on WFAA

Music and reality-competition lovers, meet your newest quintet: Since this show has been all about whittling the field of contenders down to a new boy band of five members, it reaches its natural end point with the season finale, "Top Five Revealed." Emma Bunton, Nick Carter and Timbaland — who have served as the "architects" of the group — weigh in with their final thoughts on the contest before the ultimate five are named. (Season Finale) (N) HD (Live) CC

THE NIGHT SHIFT 9 p.m. on KXAS

A SWAT team's raid results in an emergency room full of sickened immigrants — one of whom is pursuing a homicidal agenda — for the hospital staff in the new "Land of the Free." Meanwhile, Scott (Scott Wolf) assembles a veritable dream team to impress the colonel tasked with setting up a combat training program, and Kenny (JR Lemon) has some big news to share with the group. (N) HD CC

ZOO 9 p.m. on KTVT

In a taut new episode called "The Black Forest," Mitch's (Billy Burke) dangerous alter ego, Mr. Duncan, savagely attacks the team's plane and then flees, prompting Jamie, Abe and Max (Kristen Connolly, Nonso Anozi, guest star Robin Thomas) to set off on foot, trying to find and help their disturbed friend. James Wolk also stars. (N) HD CC

MASTERS OF ILLUSION 7 p.m. on KDAF

A new episode titled "Mirror Mirror and Money Movers" is bound to be a reflection - so to speak — on the half-hour's guest magicians. They include Xavier Mortimer, Scott Pepper, Chris Randall, Joshua Jay, Murray SawChuck, Billy Kidd and Greg Gleason. Host Dean Cain introduces their acts. Another episode follows. (N) HD CC

TIFFANY HADDISH: SHE READY! FROM THE HOOD TO HOLLYWOOD! 8 p.m.,12:30 a.m. on SHOW

You may know Tiffany Haddish primarily from this summer's hit movie comedy "Girls Trip" or her sharp work playing the former sister-in-law of the title character on "The Carmichael Show," but the Los Angeles-born comic — who spent time in the foster system as a child — is a formidable take-noprisoners stand-up artist, too. This concert video, filmed in live performance, catches Haddish in front of an enthusiastic audience. (N) CC

WYNONNA EARP 9 p.m. on SYFY

A very strong sophomore season starts to wind down in its penultimate episode, a new hour called "Gone as a Girl Can Get." The story revolves around a wish based on a desire to get revenge, which goes seriously awry, turning characters who once were close allies into formidable enemies. Tim Rozon also stars. (N) CC

DISAPPEARANCE OF NATALEE HOLLOWAY

6 p.m., 8 p.m., 9 p.m., 11 p.m. on OXY

It's been 12 years since 18-year-old Natalee Holloway vanished during a vacation trip to Aruba, but her father, David Holloway, says he recently received a credible lead in the case. This new true-crime series follows the senior Holloway as he and T.J. Ward, his longtime private investigator, try to pick up a trail they hope will lead them to hard evidence against their prime suspect: Dutch playboy Joran van der Sloot. (Series Premiere)

LUCIFER 7 p.m. on KDFW

Murder hits close to home, quite literally, for Lucifer (Tom Ellis) in "Homewrecker." After the owner of his building is slain, the successor wants him out so the structure can be demolished. Lucifer won't go easily nor quietly, though, and Chloe (Lauren German) backs him. Charlotte (Tricia Helfer) has her own ideas on where she wants Lucifer to be situated, and Maze and Amenadiel (Lesley-Ann Brandt, DB Woodside) keep tabs on her. CC (DVS)

HALT AND CATCH FIRE

8 p.m., 10:06 p.m. on AMC

The critically acclaimed if under-watched period drama starts its fourth and final season with a two-hour episode that finds main characters Joe, Cameron, Donna and Gordon (Lee Pace, Mackenzie Davis, Kerry Bishe and Scoot McNairy) pondering their shifting personal and professional relationships while navigating the early days of the World Wide Web. Anna Chlumsky ("Veep") joins the cast this year, too. (Season Premiere) (N) CC

Season 4 of the mystery series about the young Inspector Morse begins with "Game," as Shaun Evans returns as the sleuth whose search for a serial killer - who may not be choosing victims randomly - involves several drownings and a chess-skilled computer named Jason. Then, in "The Pillars of Hercules," the crew searches for an item that could save the world while Chandler pursues a mission of revenge. (Season Premiere) (N) CC

EPISODES

9 p.m., 12 a.m., 2:30 a.m. on SHOW

The Golden Globe Award-winning and Emmy-nominated sitcom returns for its fifth and final season, which picks up the story several months after the Season 4 finale. Matt's (Matt LeBlanc) game show is a huge hit, but his acting career seems to have been forgotten altogether. Meanwhile, Sean and Beverly (Stephen Mangan, Tamsin Greig) are dismayed that Sean's bitter and humor-challenged expartner is now holding the reins of their comedy series "The Opposite of Us." Rennie opts for science over guesswork in YouTube's 'Helen's Kitchen'

The scientist that she is, Helen Rennie takes a very methodical approach to cooking.

Indeed, the former computer programmer and current host of "Helen's Kitchen" on her YouTube channel, likes to experiment with her recipes, preparing each the exact same way but varying one ingredient or technique in each trial until she hits upon the best-possible outcome.

It's how she's developed her methods for preparing everything from steak and rack of lamb to grilled zucchini and pasta with sardines.

"I find that food is the best experience for most people to have with something empirical, because most things in life unfortunately I cannot really test out," says Rennie, a Russian-born chef who also teaches cooking classes in her home of Natick, Mass. "Like say I read about a new way to parent my children and chances are I can't really collect data on that very well. It's going to kind of come out one way or another. But with food you can. You know, when you have a question about, 'Does it work like this?' you can actually test it."

Rennie's technique for grilling steak is unique and best exemplifies her approach. After drying the meat with a paper towel, she sprinkles it with salt and then sears it on an oiled grill, flipping it every 2-3 minutes until she has the classic criss-cross grill marks. Then she turns off the burner directly beneath it and puts the others on low and lets it cook until desired doneness, as determined by a thermometer (medium rare, for example, is 130 degrees Fahrenheit). Then let the meat rest, seven minutes per inch of thickness.

"The thermometer is key," Rennie says.

"Without the thermometer, you really don't know when you are done. ... Often when people say 'scientific cooking,' all they mean is precise cooking. Because it's generally kind of 'Oh you know, it's kind of like that.' It's a little wishy washy. And sometimes you can just get really reliable, predictable results when you get measurement tools. Scales and thermometers are all wonderful."

What book are you currently reading?

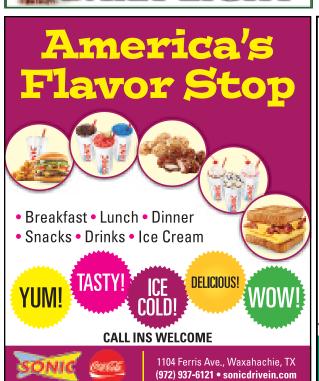

"My favorite new cookbook is 'The Fire of Peru.' ... (It's) really outstanding. It's so rare that I find a cookbook that I'm happy with because I find very often they're all food porn, just like the stuff online. Beautiful pictures, but when you go to actually do the recipe and (it's) like, 'Well, there are all these details missing.' So his stuff is great. I cooked so many things from his book and they're all delicious, and great detail in the recipes."

What did you have for dinner last night?

"Dinner last night was whole grilled bronzini. It's a little Mediterranean bass. It's very yummy, sweet, flaky (meat), and grilled summer squash. ..."

What is your next project?

"I have this series that I just started on my channel called 'Cookware Therapy.' People have been asking me for a while to make a video about which pan to use for what, and in all my videos I usually mention specifically which pan type is best for which dish. But it doesn't always give somebody a general overview. ... So I started working on this ... and it's been a somewhat difficult-to-make series because I research this stuff kind of to death, but really fun because I find it's not always information you can get. ... Sometimes it's fun to do something that's more like slightly higher level of some general concept."
